

The original view of the quarry is on the left an annotated version on the right – It is hard to show how well this works with an image a live demonstration is much more impressive.

An example of the site service that are plotted into the system – the above shows the major electric supply cables